

Gregg E. Brickman was born in North Dakota. She completed her education in Florida and embarked on a varied career in clinical, administrative, and academic nursing.

Gregg has been active in MWA since 1999. She co-chaired SleuthFest in 2001, coordinated the moderators for several years, served on various committees, and was the Florida chapter treasurer and photographer in 2014 and 2015. She has also been an active speaker in the community, attending book fairs, signings, and other events.

Credits include Imperfect Defense, Illegal Intent, She Learned to Die, Plan to Kill, Imperfect Daddy, Imperfect Contract, Illegally Dead, Chapter 14 of Naked Came the Flamingo, a Murder on the Beach progressive novella edited by Barbara Parker and Joan Mickelson, and On the Edge, a short story [MiamiARTzine.com]. The Writers' Network of South Florida recognized On the Edge among the finalists in their Seventh Annual Short Story Contest.

Gregg resides with her husband, Steve, on the Northern Cumberland Plateau in middle Tennessee.

Short Bio:

A nurse herself, Gregg E. Brickman's novels involve strong, creative nurses who use their skills to help others, confront danger, and stay alive.

Credits include Imperfect Defense, Illegal Intent, She Learned to Die, Plan to Kill, Imperfect Daddy, Imperfect Contract, Illegally Dead, Chapter 14 of Naked Came the Flamingo, and On the Edge, a short story [MiamiARTzine.com]. The Writers' Network of South Florida recognized On the Edge among the finalists in their Seventh Annual Short Story Contest.